Yet something of your feelings, John,
I a poss 'id ought to know.,
Though many a day has peased away—
'Twas forty years ago—
When hope was high within me, John,
And life lay all before,
That I, with strong and measured stoke,
"Cut locae" and pulled from shore

The years, they come and go, my boy,
The years, they come and go;
And raven iccts and tresses brown
Grow white as driven enew.
My life has known it as grown, John,
Its trials and troublew sore;
Yet God withal has hiessed me, John,
"In basket and in store."

But one thing let me tell you, John,
Belord you make your start,
There's soresia telin konent, John,
Twies o'er than being snart;
Though rounges may seem to fourtin, John,
And sacrling worth to fail,
Ohk keep in view the good and true;
Twill in the end prevail.

Don't thick too much of money, John,
And dig and delve and plan,
And rake and acrape in every shape,
To board up all you can.
Though fool may count their riches, John,
In dol as, poinds or pence,
The best of wealth is you is and health
And good sound common sense,

And don't be mean or stingy, John, But lay a little by But lay a little by

Of what you sen; you soon will learn
How fast (wi I multiply,
So, when old age comes crossing on,
You II have a goodly store
Of wealth to turnish all your needs—
And maybe semething more,

There's shorter cuts to fortune, John, We see them every day;
But those who love their self respect. Climb up, the good old way.
"All is not good that gilters," John,
And makes the volgar stare,
And those we deem the richest, John,
Have oit the least to apare.

Don't moddle with your net thlors, John Their servors or their cares. You'll find enough to do, my bay, To mind your own affairs. The world is full of diet conquessions. You can afford to shirk. There's lot of people ready, John, To do such dirty work.

And if sold the race for fame
You win a single prize,
The humbler worth of houset men
You never should despise;
For each one has his mission, John,
In life's unchanging plan—
Though lowly be his station, John,
He is no bees a man.

Be good, be pure, be noble, John,
Be housel, brave and true;
And do to others as ye would
That they should do to you.
And place your trust is fool, my boy
"Though fery dyrts be luries
Then you can smile at Satan's rage,
And face a frownin' world."

ILLEGITIMATE PRICES OF IRON. Au Iron Dealer Alarmed at the Presen Aspects of the Trade—III-Founde Mopes of Increased Demand—Gree Overreaching Itself. New York Herald.

The following letter to the Herald will its do not universally characterize the cogitations of those interested in the iron trade. The writer argues that the average demand for the material is much less than the present rate of production, and he therefore anticipates a glut in the market present prosperity more artificial than healthful, and more apparent than real He considers that those interested are already disturbed by signs of the coming storm, and hopes that measures may be taken to avert its effects.

SUFFERES from Nervous Debility.

Shortly after this transaction the same firm made a contract with the owners of one of the Hudson river furnaces for 2,500 tons at a low price. Smith with the shifter that the proposal control of th that so many miles of new railroads are to be built during the coming year, thousands of car wheels to be replaced, rolling stock renovated, old rails replaced by new; in fact, a generalreconstruction of the entire railroad plant of the country. Then a little book containing the horoscope of the iron market for years to come, written by an alleged Ohio farmer, is produced to clinich the argument. But these gentlemen seem to forget that such grand industrial schemes cannot be accomplished in a day. Before those new railroads can be built valleys must be filled up, hills leveled, mountains tunneled, lies cut and laid, rivers spanned and the roadbed graded. These preliminaries require months of labor. In the meantime the raw material and the man inactured profinct are daily accumulating to meet the prospective demand.

o meet the prospective demand.

I note in your issue of the 21st the report I note in your issue of the 21st the report of an interview between one of your staff and Mr. Abram S. Hewitt on the condition of the iron market. The latter gentleman seems fully permeated with the speculative fever. Mr. Hewitt, in an interview published last year in one of the metropolitan dailies, stated that the price of iron could not go above $20 per ton for gray forge, owing to the competition of foreign irons. Subsequent events proved Mr. Hewitt to have been mistaken, notwithstanding the very cogent reasons of fered. The scarcity of iron, according to the above eminent authority, is so great that he recently purchased a couple of Revolutionary cannon that had been buried for many years, and that he was in quest of another which he hoped to secure. By such weighty arguments the market is kept in a state of disquiet and apprehensive distrust. There is no real or apparent reason why the price of No. 1 foundry pig iron should range above $25 per ton. The capabilities of production are ample, labor is cheap and abundant, coal, transportation, and ores in like conditions to meet any possible demand. That a desperate effort will be made to hold and, if possible, advance the price is evident. I trust the Herald, with its characteristic enterpise and asgacity, will probe this iniquitous scheme to the bottom, so that some of our most important industries may be relieved of the doubt and apprehension which at present exist, and that the attempt to levy so heavy a burden upon manufacturers, who are but alowly recovering from the effects of the famous panic, may come to naught, and that the vast interests affected may not again be placed in jeopardy.

Iron and Nails. of an interview between one of your staff and Mr. Abram S. Hewitt on the condi-

Springfield Republican.

The rise in iron goes on without a pause in the face of increased production and swollen imports. It is confidently prefair ante-panic prices, and quotations in they fall. The nail-makers, for instance, who have marked nails up from $2 50 a keg to $5 and $5 50, say that they are sellkeg to $5 and $5 50, say that they are sell-ing more than ever at the new prices, and the chances are excellent that nails will be $6 before they are lower. An increase in price is altogether probable in regard to manufactured iron for some time to come, but it is difficult to believe that the rise can go on much longer in pig iron. After six months of iron expansion, more than half the blast furnaces of the con-try are still out of work. As most people After six months of iron expansion, more than half the blast furnaces of the country are still out of work. As most people know, starting a blast furnace costs a small fortune, and no owner cares to fire up unless future sales are certain. Only 384 furnaces, with an annual production of 3,778,344 tons, are at work, against 384 out of blast, with a yearly capacity of 2,146,820 tons. According to Abram S. Hewitt, excellent authority, the country needs over 4,000,000 tons a year, made last year about 3,500,000, and can make over 5,000,000 annually. Overproduction under these circumstances is a mere question of time. It may not come this year, but must come eventually. It is noticeable that, while two-thirds of the antifiracite or bituminous furnaces are running, only one-third of the charceal furnaces are. In other words, the supply of the finer varieties of iron is being increased less rapidly than of the coarser, and the prices of articles needing charceal fron are likely to be kept up longer than prices depending on the quotations of anthracite pigs.

Before the soup, a man is fit for strata-Before the soup, a man is fit for strata-gens and spoils; after the dessert, he is tractable and docile. A French philoso-pher goes so far as to assert that if wives would look after the dinner table a little more carefully, three-quarters of the mat-rimonial infelicity of the world would vanish. We translate four simple lines which may be pondered with profit:

SANFORD'S

CATARRH

This may certify that I have been a subject of that terrible disease, Catarrh of the Bead and Throat, for some 52 years, caused by taking cold in the month of June, 1825. The attack at that time was so severe that the doctor and my frends thought I must die, For years and years I have been so sick that life has been a burden to myself and friends. It is useless for me to say how many doctors I have tried, how much medicine I have taken, during all these years of endless suffering, but those who suffer as I have suffered will know that I never ceased to look for relief, and to try every remedy that promised it. EXCHANGE BANK lief, and to try every remedy that promised it.

In Sepiember, 1876, I began the use of Sayrond's Rancal Citar For Cataman. No sooner did I begin to use it than my symptomschanged. It cleared my throat, it cleared my liead, it cleared my mind. It operated on my system in a way that nothing ever before given ne by doctors had done. How radilly I improved under the influence of this wonderful medicine those who have known me for years can testify. And now, sirs, to make a long story short, I will say I would not exchange the good it has done me for the whole world and all it contains. My memory, which was nearly all gone, has returned again, and I could tell of afflictions I have emitured, too great for some, people to credit. I can with a clear conscience and the strongest faith attest to this on the Holy Bible. God bless the man that found out this remedy.
